THE STORY

The name Sylvan, drawn from the Latin meaning “of the woods”.

This collection is born from a deep longing to bring the calm beauty of nature into the home and reflects a vision of interiors enriched by the quiet poetry of trees, leaves and dappled light.

The inspiration came during a walk through an ancient woodland, where oak leaves drifted slowly from the trees above. Each leaf carried a sense of movement and delicacy, we sought to translate that experience into furniture.

Every piece in the collection is hand-forged from steel, its strength echoing the permanence of the oak itself. Brass oak leaves are delicately applied capturing the warmth and glow of autumn as sunlight touches fallen leaves.

Sylvan.

The Sylvan Spindle

Hand-forged from steel, our Sylvan Spindles bring the quiet beauty of the woodland into the heart of the home.

Each spindle carries the organic texture of beaten metal, celebrating the artistry of traditional blacksmithing, while delicate brass oak leaves and acorns offer a subtle nod to autumn's golden glow. The design can be fully bespoke, with leafy spindles positioned as frequently or sparingly as desired, allowing for a rhythm that suits every staircase.

A neatly placed finishing collar conceals fixings, ensuring a refined, timeless look. Inspired by ancient trees and the dappled light through oak branches.

Sylvan is a poetic expression of nature's permanence and grace, crafted to elevate interiors with warmth and understated luxury.

No two tables are ever the same; every curve, vein, and detail is unique, a testament to the bespoke craftsmanship behind each piece.

The marble top rests gracefully on this sculptural base, its cool permanence echoing the reflecting strength of the oak. Together, they form a striking balance of refinement and nature's raw beauty.

The Sylvan Drinks Table

The Sylvan Drinks Table offers a thoughtful companion to modern living. Designed to hover neatly over the sofa, it creates an elegant resting place for a glass, book, or moment of pause.

Its strength begins at the base, where a discreet flat steel plate ensures stability without distraction.

Rising from this foundation, two forged branches twist upward with a natural cadence, recalling the quiet movement of trees in woodland light.

These branches cradle the supporting frame, which is completed with a hand-finished marble surface; smooth, cool, and timeless.

Each table is crafted individually, allowing subtle variations that reveal the hand of the maker. Both practical and poetic, the Sylvan Drinks Table captures nature's stillness within the flow of everyday life.

The Sylvan Stair Rod

The Sylvan Stair Rod is a refined detail that grounds the collection in traditional craftsmanship while adding sophistication to the staircase.

Forged from solid 12mm hammered steel, each rod carries the subtle irregularities of the anvil, creating a surface alive with texture and character. At either end sits a hand patinaed brass acorn, its warm glow offering a natural counterpoint to the darker steel.

Forged brackets hold the rod firmly against the tread, their understated design ensuring both strength and beauty.

More than a functional fitting, the Sylvan Stair Rod brings a rhythm to each step. As light catches the steel and brass, it transforms a staircase into a feature of enduring beauty, echoing the collection's woodland inspiration.

The Sylvan Curtain Holdback

The Sylvan Curtain Holdback is a sculptural piece that is delicate.

Forged by hand from a single length of steel, it sweeps outward from the wall in a gentle arc, ending in a slender curl.

From this emerges a smaller branch adorned with hand-applied leaves and a single acorn, each detail shaped individually. The result is a piece alive with natural variation, echoing the shifting forms of the forest floor.

More than a practical fitting, the Sylvan Curtain Holdback draws the eye, framing fabric with elegance.
